Robin Hood Gardens Estate (UK) in Danger

A perilous situation is developing around the remarkable Robin Hood Gardens Estate of 1972 designed by Peter and Alison Smithson, in Tower Hamlets. According to recent copies of Building Design, it is feared that the local authority and the minister may approve the tearing down of the flats as refurbishment is said to be unfeasible on cost grounds.

To fully support Docomomo UK in its efforts to get the estate conserved and listed, please sign up the petition at <http://www.bdonline.co.uk/story.asp?storycode=3107018>

Publication : Integrated Management Tools in South East Europe

As part of the Institutional Capacity Building Plan, which is the first of the three components of the Regional Programme for Cultural and Natural Heritage in South-East Europe launched in 2003, a "transnational theme-based debate" was organised. The second step in this debate stemmed from an assessment of requests from the countries/regions participating in the Regional Programme: Albania, Bosnia and Herzegovina, Bulgaria, Croatia, Kosovo/ UNMIK, Montenegro, Romania, Serbia and "the former Yugoslav Republic of Macedonia". The first step was concerned with current heritage policies and legislation. Its aim was to take stock of the position regarding legislative reforms and heritage policies in the countries of South-East Europe. It also highlighted the need for an in-depth analysis of certain key areas where difficulties still arose in implementation. The second step was concerned with tools for integrated management of the cultural and natural heritage, in the broad sense of the term "heritage" (the concept of cultural environment). It linked together three key topics previously identified: - documentation systems; - incorporating the heritage dimension in environment, regional development and town planning documents; - permits, controls and penalties related to heritage conservation work. The focus in this second step remained on the basic concept of "integrated conservation" of the cultural and natural heritage.
